Machine Turns Turile and Victims Are Crushed to Death.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN ESCAPE

ness Man of Bethayres, Pa., and His Wife and Their Chauffeur In Fatal Accident Near White House,

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.-Edward H. Burling, a retired business man; Mrs. Burling, his wife, and John Kilroy, their chauffeur,, of Bethayres, were instantly killed in an automobile accident on the Flemington-White macadam road, near "Flatwoods," about two miles from White House station, Miss Tiel and Miss Robinson, friends of the Burlings, who joined ulously escaped injury.

The accident was due directly to the skidding of the machine, when it struck a wet spot in the road. Mr. and Mrs. Burling spent their winters at the Belgravia in Philadelphia.

The party passed through Flemington in a six-passenger touring car. The accident occurred on a short, but rather steep grade, and on a straight stretch of roadway. The machine ran slightly out of its course, up the side of an eight-foot bank and fell over upon its occupants. Dallas Orner, of Bound Brook, on his way to Flemington, had just passed the machine and was only a short distance away when he heard a crash and cries for assistance. Another automobilist had also passed the touring car, and both men hurried to the assistance of those pinned under the car.

Orner assisted Miss Tiel from beneath the wrecked machine with little difficulty, but Miss Robinson's arm was held firmly, and it was necessary to pry up the car to release her.

Mr. and Mrs. Burling and Kilroy were dead when assistance arrived. In order extricate their bodies it was necessary to obtain a block and fall to raise the machine. There was every indication that they were killed instantly. Kilroy was pinned tightly between the steering wheel and the seat. It is thought that the weight of the machine crushed out the life of Mr. and Mrs. Burling.

Dr. F. G. Clark, of White House, was summoned, and found that Miss Tiel and Miss Robinson had not been injured. They were taken to the home murder case and now being returned of Mr. and Mrs. William Popham, at to New York, spent more than two Flemington Junction, where they were hours in Indianapolis. Assistant Dishome that both had escaped injury, but were suffering from the shock. They remained at the Popham home for a time, and then went to White prisoner en route, but refused to say House station, from which place they took a train for their home.

cause of the accident is that, after the skidding, Kilroy might have directed his attention from the roadway momentarily when the machine ran up the embankment, or that he might have lost control of the car when he turned out to let another automobile pass. The steering gear was intact and the brakes apparently had not been applied. The car was not running at a high rate of speed. It was less than twenty feet from where the machine started to go up the embankment to where it was overturned beside the road.

Former Judge E. A. Armstrong, of Camden, arrived from his summer home near Princeton, and made arrangements for the removal of the bodies to Bethayres.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17 .- Governor Dix named Justice Goff to hold a special term of the supreme court, at the request of District Attorney Whitman, in the police graft case.

In naming Justice Goff, Governor Dix declared that, without reflection on local authorities, he believed "an immediate, determined and fearless inquisition under grand jury auspices and authority, set in motion by execu tive order, is imperatively demanded by the grave exigencies of what might be termed an unofficial indictment of the metropolitan police system.

"Even if all the abominable things which have been charged are true," he said, "I regard the punishment of an individual of vastly less importance with regard to the lasting welfare of the community and of society at large, than that the conditions which have at once led up to the final crime and at the same time made its consummation possible, shall be pitilessly bared in a compelling and unshrinking judicial inquiry."

UNDUE CONTROL IS ALLEGED

United States District Court In Phila delphia Will Hear Suit to Dissolve the So-Called $100,000,000 Moving Picture Trust.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.-The Federal government opened war upon the 'moving picture trust" by filing a suit in equity for its dissolution in the United States district court.

Ten prominent moving picture film concerns are accused of combining to monopolize the business, even to the extent of increasing or decreasing the number of motion picture theatres in which they have no proprietary inter-

The following corporations and individuals, who are officers or directors, are named as defendants:

Motion Picture Patents company General Film company, Biograph company, Thomas A. Edison, Inc. Essanay Film Manufacturing com pany, the Kalem company, inc. George Kleine, Lubin Manufacturing company, Melies Manufacturing company, Pathe Freres, the Selig Poly scope company, the Vitagraph com pany of America, Armat Moving Pic ture company, Frank L. Dyer, Henry N. Marvin, J. J. Kennedy, William Pelzer, Samuel Long, J. A. Berst, Sieg mund Lubin, Gaston Melies, Albert E Smith, George K. Speer and W. N

The court is asked to restrain these persons and companies from exercis ing an undue monopoly of the mov ing picture business.

Each of the defendants is alleged to have overstepped the bounds of the lawful monopoly granted by their pat ents, and the petition asks that sev eral complicated interlocking license restrictions, tying patents together be ordered cancelled. The govern ment charges that unreasonable and oppressive restraints and conditions have been arbitarily imposed on the manufacture and leasing of films and machines, depriving the public of the advantages of competition, especially the competition of foreign films, the importation of which is alleged to be

Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assist ant to the attorney general, who has charge of the pending anti-trust sui against the International Harvester company, made an exhaustive investi gation of the moving picture business, drawing up the petition, which was filed by John C. Swartley, United States attorney. The bill is also sign being taken back to New York, said ed by Attorney General Wickersham

The government's petition says that between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 feet of pictures are printed each week by manufacturers and distributed to thou sands of exhibitors all over the United States. The government declares that a sum greatly in excess of $100,000,000 has been invested in the different branches of the business. The de fendants control, it is added, from 70 to 80 per cent. of the film business furnishing approximately 7000 exhibi

The Motion Picture Patents company, organized in New Jersey in Sep tember, 1908, is the holding company of all the motion picture patents o the defendants. Other than collecting and distributing royalties among the defendants, the bill says the Patents company's only business is the bring ing of lawsuits under the patents is holds. Hundreds of suits have been brought, it is alleged, "to harrass and oppress all persons engaged in the motion picture business who have not obeyed its mandates."

Soaks Self In Kerosene; Dies.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 17.-Crazed by excessive and constant smoking, Vic toria Ruiz, a Cuban woman, poured a gallon of kerosene over her clothing and lighted a match to it. She was burned to death, and did not complain once during her horrible suffering. Neighbors witnessed the act.

Fifteen Overcome at Fire.

New York, Aug. 17.-Fifteen fire men were overcome by smoke from flames which damaged a seven-story manufacturing building on Bleecke street, and caused a loss estimated at $200,000. The building was occu pied by manufacturing firms.

BIG BATTLE UN IN WAR GAME

Blues Ready For General Assault By the Reds.

20,000 TROOPS TAKING PART

General Mills, Commanding Defenders, and General Smith, Head of the Invaders, Both Hold Strong Position After Brisk Cavalry Fight.

Maneuvers Headquarters, Newtown, Conn., Aug. 17.—The general engagement with which the Connecticut maneuvers campaign will end will have its climax today in a grand assault by the Red invading army against the strongly intrenched center of the Blue defending army on the ridges of Newtown and Redding.

Practically all of the 20,000 soldiers who have been training for a week in this war area are taking part in the conflict.

Never before in this country have so many men been used in mimic battle since the maneuver plan has been used for giving instructions to na tional guardsmen. The plan of the Reds in this main attack will be to march on Brewsters, N. Y., there to make a demonstration against the New York watershed, West Point, and New York itself. The preliminary flanking movements, which have turn ed the Blues out of position after posi tion, have had the effect of forcting the direction of the Reds slightly to the northward.

The general engagement was begun when General Smith, commander of the Reds, attempted to move a bri gade of infantry directly west, as was the original intention. General Mills on being apprised of this, ordered Col onel Parker's cavalry to make a di version against Smith's extreme left This stopped the expected frontal at tack along the eight-mile front, and the contact brought on simply cavalry encounters. Mills did not accept the challenge to move out of his strong position on the ridges of Newtown and Redding, but he let the cavalry bear the brunt of the fight, knowing they were much stronger than any cavalry force which Smith could col

The fighting yesterday was spec tacular but indecisive, and, beginning early, it continued all day,

Meantime Mills, having heard tha the Red attack was simply a ruse t permit opening a road to Brewsters directed his cavalry to intrench on the ridges, and brought down some twenty heavy guns from Bethel to pro tect his infantry in their work. Smith finally held the brigade which made up his left wing in check, and swung it so that it faced northwest. Hav ing received word from New Bedford Springfield and Hartford that the ed at the first named place a wee ago, was marching to reinforce hi centre, he decided to delay a fronta attack until some time today.

Mills, however, had sent a brigade of infantry to protect Brewsters, bu recalled it, upon hearing that another provisional army had been gotten to gether by the patriots in New York and Washington, and had already ad vanced a considerable distance up the Hudson Valley to reinforce him Learning also that New York was wel protected against attack by way o the Long Island Sound shore, Mill decided to concentrate all his effort to stop any attack the Reds might make along his front.

While this plan is theoretical and development of the scheme which was behind the present campaign, it ex plains, to some extent, the failure of both armies to rush into a pitched battle.

General Tasker H. Bliss, who i chief umpire, moved his headquarters from Stratford to Newton, and a large staff and detail of umpires came with him. He had been preceded by an engineers' squad, whichp itched his camp, and a signal corps squad which set up a wireless mast, so that com munication would be possible with each divisional and brigade beadquar ters. The country spreads out like panorama for a ten-mile radius around

All yesterday the outposts and cay alry were gradually working through the country to try and find the vari ous units, their positions and their strength. From this point the nat ural development of a line of battle would follow the withdrawal of the Blue to the northwest. To move in any other direction would be to leave the base of supplies at Danbury unguarded. In addition, the withdrawal in this direction would give the Blues the best ground for a defensive plan The cavalry clashes, which became general all along the lines of the Blues' withdrawal through Easton Trumbull and Monroe during the fore noon, were, in many instances, fought by dismounted troopers. Troop D First New York Cavalry, of Syracuse was captured by the Reds east of As petuck. Mills moved the Blue headquarters from Redding Ridge, Colonel Parker's cavalry having cleared up the coun try to the southeast in the night and seized the residential section of Newtown as a base, many of the troops for the time being, camping in the main street of the village. The Reds were in force in Huntington, and re ports from that direction indicated that these columns were convergins apon Rethal

CHAPTER XVII.

In Which Keziah Decides to Fight. The news was flying from house to house along the main road. Breakfasts were interrupted as some neighbor rushed in to tell the story which another neighbor had brought to him or her. Mr. Ellery was very sick and It was feared he had the smallpox. Grace Van Horne was with him, had taken him back to the shanty, and insisted upon staying there until the doctor came.

At the Daniels's house the servant girl rushed into the dining room to serve the toast and the story at one swoop. Captain Elkanah's dignity deserted him for an instant and his egg spoon fingled to the floor. Annabel's face turned a dull red. Her eyes fashed sparks.

"Pa!" she cried, "I-I-if you don't do something now I'll never-" Her father shook his head warningly. "Debby," he said to the maid,

"you needn't wait." Debby departed reluctantly. After the kitchen door had closed, Captain Elkanah said: "My dear, we mustn't be too hasty in this matter. Remember, Mr. Ellery is very sick. As forfor the Van Horne girl, we haven't heard the whole truth yet. She may the smallpox!" not be there at all, or it may be just an accidentried to pacity. It ended by his promsing to investigate and, if necessary, take steps 'immelitly."

Lavinia Pepper sprung the mine on her brother. Kyan was horrified. He had grown to be one of Ellery's most devoted worshipers.

One of the very first to hear of the minister's illness was Keziah Coffin. Mrs. Parker told her and Keziah started for the beach before the tale of Grace's part in the night's happenings reached the village. She did not wait for a conveyance, hardly waited to throw a shawl over her shoulders, but began to cover the three miles on foot. She had walked nearly two-thirds of the distance when Captain Zeb Mayo overtook her and gave her a seat in his chaise.

They said little during the drive, the shock and anxiety forbidding conversation. At the ropes was the same group, larger now, and Dr. Parker's horse was hitched to one of the posts. "You can't go in, Mrs. Coffin," said Thoph Black. "The doctor give us his orders not to let nobody get by. I guess nobody wants to, but all the Keziah paid not the slightest attention to Mr. Black. She stooped beneath his arm, under the rope and was on her way to the shanty before they realized her intention. The living room was empty, but at the sound of her step some one came from the room adjoining. That some one was Grace. Dr. Parker appeared, holding up a hand for silence.

"Hush!" he cried. "He's quiet now and I think he will sleep. Don't talk here. Go outside, if you must talkand I suppose you must."

Grace led the way. Fortunately, the door was on the side not visible from the spot where Captain Zeb and the rest were standing. Keziah, bewildered and amazed at the girl's presence, followed dumbly.

"Now, auntie," whispered Grace, turning to her, "you want to know how he is, of course. Well, I think he is better. The doctor thinks so, too. But why did you come here?"

"Why did I come? Why, because my place was here. I belonged here. For the love of mercy's sakes what are you doin' here? With him? And

"Hush. I can't help it. I don't care. don't care for anything any more. I'm glad I came. I'm glad I was the one to find him and help him. No matter what happens-to me-I'm glad. I never was so glad before. I calling him a hero and—and every- love him, Aunt Keriah. I can say it thing! Hero! he stayed there just so to you, for you know it-you must know it. I love him and he needed me and I came. He was calling my "I shan't hush. Pa, are you going name when I found him. He might have died there, alone in the wet and "No, no. Probably there ain't any cold, and I saved him. Think what that means to me."

The door opened softly and Dr. Parker came out.

"He's asleep," be said. "And he's ing him here at dinner and-and I better, much better. And I'll tell you have- Oh, I shall die! I wish I was something else, if you won't make too smallpox. Then he I'll pretty nearly guarantee to have confided, as a strict secret, the fact him up and out of this-this pesthole that the two were engaged. Before in a fortnight."

Here was joyful tidings, the better shock of this explosion, he was justifor being so unexpected. Keziah fying the engagement. Why shouldn't

Keziah considered. "All right, doctor," she said, when she reached a decision, "all right; I'll tell you the whole thing."

She went on to tell all she knew of her parson's love story.

Dr. Parker listened. "Hum!" he said thoughtfully, "I see. What made her change her mind so suddenly? You say, or you gather from what Mr. Ellery told you, that she had all but agreed to marry him. She cares for him, that's sure. Then, all at once, she throws him over and accepts Nat. Of course her uncle's sudden seizure was a shock and he wanted Nat to have her, but she isn't the kind of girl to be easily swayed. But never mind that, that doesn't count now. Let's look at things as they are this minute. She's here and folks know it. As they do know it they'll begin to talk, and the more they talk the farther from the truth they'll get-most of 'em. Nat, poor chap, is dead, so her promise to him is canceled. Ellery will get well if he isn't troubled. If she leaves him he'll go to pieces again, so she mustn't leave. And she can't stay without an explanation. I say let's give the ex-

"Well, I know it. But he never was so popular as he is now. And she isn't by any means a steady-going Come-Outer. Why, Zeke Bassett and the rest have been finding fault with her and calling her a backslider. That'll help. Then you trust me to whoop up her heroism and the fact that without her he would have died. We can do it, Keziah. Come on! I've tackled a good many jobs, but matchmaking isn't one of 'em. Here goes to tackle that."

Keziah was delighted; here was work after her own heart. But she still hesitated.

'Doctor." she said, "you've forgot one thing, that's Gracie herself. Would much noise about it-he hasn't got the she marry him now, knowing it may mean the loss of his ministry and all, fever, though, but I guess he'll dodge and more than she would at first? I

"That's your part, Keziah. You've got to show her she must marry him or he'll die; see?" Keziah's hesitation was at an end.

Her face lit up. "I say good!" she cried. "And now I want to give you a piece of advice.

"Humph! Cap'n Zeb is the first man I mean to see."

and eyes and ears open. Mrs. Mayo was with him when the doctor called, and she, too, listened. "Well!" exclaimed the captain, when the plea for support was ended.

Captain Zeb listened with his mouth

"Well, by the flukes of Jonah's whale! Talk about surprises. Old lady, what do you say?" "I say go ahead, Zebedee. Go ahead! If Mr. Ellery wanted to marry Jezebel's sister, and I knew he really wanted to, I'd-I do believe I'd help him get her. And Grace Van Horne is a good girl. Go ahead."

"Say, doc, there'll be a lively row, and I kind o' like it," said Captain

Mrs. Mayo and the doctor's wife championed the cause at sewing circle. They were lively, those sewing meetings, and the ing with importance, affirmed that it fur flew. Didama Rogers and Lavinia Pepper were everywhere and ready to agree with whichever side seemed likely to win.

It was by no means a one-sided struggle. Captain Elkanah, spurred on by the furious Annabel, marshaled his forces and proclaimed that Ellery, having disgraced the Regular Society, should no longer occupy its pulpit, He hinted concerning a good-sized contribution toward a parish house, something the society needed. If Ellery was discharged, the contribution would probably be made, not otherwise. And this was a point worth considering.

Daniels also wrote to his influential friends of the National Regular Soclety. But Captain Zebedee had forestalled him there and both letters were laid on the table to await further developments. As for the Come-Outers, they were wild with rage and Grace was formally read out of their

"Cat's foot!" snapped Keziah brisk ly, "don't start in tellin' me news now. I've got my hands full as 'tis. News'll keep and you won't, if you talk another minute."

She could manage him: it was with Grace that she had her struggle. First, and bluntly, she told the girl that her leaving was useless. The secret was out; it had been made public. Everyone knew she was in love with John and he with her. Their engagement was considered an established certainty. Grace was greatly agitated and very indignant.

"Who dared say so?" she demanded. "Who dared say we were engaged? It's not true. It's a wicked lie and-Who is responsible, Aunt Keziah?"

The county papers were full of the squabble, but they merely reported the news and did not take sides. The fight was too even for that.

One afternoon a few days before the date set for the meeting Elkanah and two or three of his henchmen were on the 1 2a of the Daniels home, discussing the situation. They were blue and downcast, Annabel was in the sitting room, shedding tears of humiliation and jealous rage

Some one was talking excitedly on the sidewalk beyond the lilac bushes at the border of the Daniels property. Voices answered. Didama Rogers darted out of her yard and past the house in the direction of the sounds. Salters rose and walked down to the gate. Emulous Sparrow, the fish peddler, was seated in his cart, which was surrounded by men and women, neigh. bors of the Danielses. There was perfect storm and questionings and ejaculations.
